

FAQ FOR FUNDED STUDENTS

Congratulations on receiving an assistantship and/or fellowship from the Economics Department. Below you will find answers to some of the most common questions funded students have as their first semester at Binghamton University approaches. I am looking forward to working with you as you begin your studies here.

How are assignments made?

Assignments are made based on the department's needs, the particular skills of the student, and the student's own schedule, of course.

When will I know my assignment?

I will be working closely with Prof. Kern to determine assignments. This includes deciding who will be a Graduate Assistant (GA), which is a research assignment, and who will be a Teaching Assistant (TA), which usually includes leading small discussion sections associated with a large lecture. We will also be deciding to which faculty member you will be assigned. Assignments are generally given out at the department's Orientation session on Thursday, August 23.

How should I prepare for my assignment?

Advance preparation is not necessary. If you are assigned as a TA you attend all lectures of the course to review the material so that you can assist the undergraduate students in the class. You will be supplied with the text book. Students assigned as a GA will generally be given assignments that take advantage of skills they already possess, or they may be asked to take a workshop to acquire additional computer skills.

How many hours per week is my assignment?

Students who are assigned full time may be reasonably expected to work up to 20 hours per week, although most assignments are about 15 hours. Students with half assignments may work half the above amounts. Students who are regularly required to work more than 20 hours per week are expected to contact Prof. Hanes, Director of Graduate Studies; regular work assignments of more than 20 hours per week are excessive and not allowed.

Will I have an office?

Graduate TAs and GAs will be assigned shared office space in areas assigned to the Economics Department. You will be expected to keep the room clean and to arrange office hours that do not conflict with others in the space. Please note that these shared offices are primarily for conducting your assistantship responsibilities and are often not conducive for use as a study space.

When will I be paid?

Assistantship paychecks are issued every two weeks for 19.5 pay periods. The first checks, covering the pay period August 23-September 5, will be available September 19 and will be placed in your departmental mailbox. NOTE: Students who have not submitted all of the required forms by August 29 will not receive their first paycheck until October 3; however it will cover the pay periods August 23-September 5 and September 6-19.

When will Fellowship payments be made?

Fellowship payments will be made in lump sums at the beginning of each semester – approximately September 1 and February 1. You will be e-mailed when checks are available telling you where to pick them up. NOTE: This information does not apply to Clark Fellowships, which have their own rules. Clark Fellows should check with the Graduate School if they have questions.
